Special Commission Projects for the Current Biennium

Montana Indian Language Preservation Pilot Program

During the 2013 legislative session, Senate Bill 342 established the inaugural Montana Indian Language Program (MILP). The pilot program was created to help preserve Native languages that are traditionally spoken in the state. During the current biennium, each of the eight tribal nations have access to $77,500 to produce preservation products that will help memorialize their languages while at the same time help to perpetuate language usage. Each of the tribes has their own schedule and prioritization of goals and activities for the year. The activities include digitizing language products, recordings of stories and book publishing, online classes, development of interactive language dictionaries and other language learning activities and summer language immersion classes among other priorities. The STED Commission created the guidelines for MILP and is the administrative/project management arm working with each local community on producing deliverables and reporting budgetary and activity updates. The MILP program works to ensure that all the program deliverables are submitted to the Montana Historical Society. The language programs have a biennial budget of $625,000 for all eight tribes including the State recognized Little Shell Tribe (Appropriated at $1 million in 2017 session, $250,000 reduction in the summer of 2017 via SB 261 and planning for a $125,000 reduction in August of 2018 via SB 261.)

Strengthening State Tribal Economic Development Networks

Annually, the STEDC program manager and Office of Indian Country Economic Development staff traveled to each of the reservations multiple times to address tribal councils, discuss projects with tribal staff and Indian businesses and to share with the tribal communities the various funding and technical assistance opportunities that are offered through the state and beyond. Staff have participated in intra-agency meetings and economic development events including the Montana Economic Developers Association (MEDA) presentations, Montana Department of Transportation Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) panels, Montana Indian Business Alliance (MIBA) Conference, Innovate Montana Symposium, State Tribal Relations Interim Committee (STRIC) meetings, and Montana Indian Education Association (MIEA) Conference.

Tribal Tourism & Development:

During the 2017 regular session of the Montana Legislature, Senate Bill 309 sponsored by Senator Lea Whitford, created and funded a new Indian Country tourism region that is administered by the State Tribal Economic Development Commission. The bill created a funding source derived from the Lodging and Facility Use Tax (bed tax) at a rate of .5%. In fiscal year 2018, appropriation is set at an authority level of $110,000 which will increase in fiscal year 2019 to $120,000. This bill also mandated at least one tribal government and one private sector representative to the Tourism Advisory Council. In a joint meeting between the State Tribal Economic Development Commission and Tourism Advisory Council held October 2017, eight priorities and focuses areas were identified. The priorities were ranked in importance to meet the achievable goals of the department and outlined as: Re-design Tribal Tourism Guidebook, Industry Membership, Familiarization Tour-RMI/Flathead, Social Media Marketing Promotion, Joint Venture Media, Photography, Crown of the Continent Maps, Tribal Tourism Map. The Indian tourism region covers the State of Montana and is specifically defined by areas recognized as being historically associated with the seven federally recognized reservations in Montana and the Little Shell Chippewa Tribe. Developed by the State Tribal Economic Development Commission, the five Tribal Tourism Pillars" are listed and defined as:

Product Development

- Tourism products are tourism experiences that visitors may experience in state. This may include lodging accommodations, guided and self-tours, museums, restaurants, educational experiences, arts and crafts markets, etc.

Capacity Development

- Building a deeper understanding of tourism and industry best practices for tribal tourism partners from both the public and private sector, while growing the facilities available to attract prospective visitors to tribal tourism experiences.

Collateral Assets

- Development of updated marketing and visitor education/orientation pieces to ensure the content is fresh and within the current industry best practices.

Industry Relationship Development

- Concerted efforts will be made to initiate and deepen relationships across the industry, and capitalizing industry association and operator interest to develop and maintain relationships with tribal tourism partners.

Research

- Local research will be conducted to understand what tribal communities see as culturally appropriate and what can or should be prioritized to share with prospective visitors.

April 2018, the Department of Commerce, Office of Indian Country Economic Development hired a tribal tourism officer to collaborate with tribal governments, tourism-based businesses, tourism partners and tourism regions across Montana to develop a cohesive tribal tourism strategy in Montana. The tribal tourism officer facilitates government to consumer, government to industry, government to tribal nation and internal MOTBD collaboration. The tribal tourism officer is directly responsible for tribal tourism marketing, visitor orientation, and the development of tourism products, services and facilities. Tourism development activities include training and workshop opportunities with the American Indian Alaska Native Tourism Association (AIANTA), the Governor's Conference on Tourism participation, developing a more robust Indian Country content for the visitmt.com website, and National Association for Interpretation certification and training.

Native American Collateral Support Program (NACS)

Following the 2015 legislative session, staff launched the Native American Collateral Support program after researching domestic high-performing collateral support programs. The program addresses a lack of access to capital for Native American owned businesses. The program has assisted with certificates of deposit to support:

- $65,000 on a $225,000 loan for land acquisition and commercial building construction for Flathead Raft Company in Polson, MT
- $100,000 on a $379,000 loan for the purchase of Wolf City Auto Napa in Wolf Point, MT
- $18,342 on a loan of $80,000 for the purchase of a hunting and fishing lodge for River Bend Lodge, LLC located on the Crow Reservation
- $72,000 on a loan of $144,000 for relocation costs for the Bloom Montessori School located in Helena, MT, and
- $86,000 to support a loan of $172,572 for the purchase of CNC equipment for Polson Tile and Stone in Polson, MT.

Staff met with financial institutions both on and near the reservations to make them aware of the program.

Policy/Program Recommendations

The STED Commission has actively participated in and made recommendations on the program framework and budget for programs housed in the Office of Indian Country Economic Development. A consistent focus for the commissioners is addressing the barriers of accessing capital for tribal and individually owned tribal member businesses and expanding the tribal private sector.

STED Commission-Tribal Indian Equity Fund Program

The State Tribal Economic Development (STED) Commission approved utilizing the Montana State Small Business Credit Initiative (SSBCI) funds to be matched (1:1) by the tribal governments to promote and fund tribal business development in Montana at their February 1, 2017 meeting as the STED Indian Equity Fund Program. With guidance from the state-established Indian Equity Fund Grant Program, the STED Commission contracted pledged (held in trust) and match funds to the tribal governments for tribal program administration and oversight. Tribal governments then began re-granting the funding to tribal businesses or provided critical trainings according to developed application and usage criteria. A total of $197,121 in SSBCI funding was matching by funds held in trust and matched by the Tribes for a total of $394,242 in funding for grants to businesses and business trainings.

STED Commission Montana Indian Youth Program

The State-Tribal Economic Development (STED) Commission allocated $150,000 in Montana State Small Business Credit Initiative (SSBCI) funds to pilot a Montana Indian Youth Small Business Program. whereby tribal youth interns were and will continue to be placed with private sector entrepreneurs to learn how businesses operate and to assist in growing private sector businesses and business development in Indian Country. The goal of the program is to provide an opportunity for the tribal youth to mentor with small businesses in their interest area that will result in building business acumen, including experience in managing a business, improving communication and customer service skills, and fostering better understanding and deeper appreciation of success in tribal small business. Additionally, the program intends to leverage the unique perspectives and skills sets of Native youth to grow and diversify operational, marketing and product development for private sector businesses which was identified in the Main Street Montana Project as a critical need in Indian Country. Ultimately, Native youth and private sector businesses will be positively impacted and the tribal private sector economy will be enhanced. The program is currently ongoing with seven tribal governments participating. Tribal governments fund youth internships via a stipend for up to $2,000 ($1,500 from the program and $500 from the business). In the summer of 2017, 14 youth participated in the internship program and additional internships are underway this summer and will be available next summer.

STED Commission Board Membership

The commission is comprised of one member from each of the seven federally recognized tribes in Montana and one member from the Little Shell band of Chippewa Indians. A tribal government may advertise for individuals interested in serving on the commission and develop a list of applicants from which it may choose its nominee to recommend to the Governor. In place of choosing from a list of applicants, a tribal government may select an elected tribal official to recommend for membership on the Commission. If a tribal government nominates or otherwise recommends more than one person for membership on the Commission, the Governor shall select one individual from among those recommended persons.
